

SOCIAL JUSTICE

Bridget Jelagat Kipkorir

Social justice is celebrated by many
But for many of us, it's an illusion
Our dreams are crushed by inequality
And our cries are not heard

Social evils in society
Nepotism, tribalism and racism
Haunt our society
Oh, how can we end this?

We cry for our rights
Our voices are not heard
We suffer through the night
To us, social justice is an unattainable dream

We have to break the chains
Of poverty and discrimination
To bring hope and compassion
To every corner of our nation

If we unite
We will fight for our rights
Eradicate oppressors
And bring oppression to a halt

If we fight injustice,

Advocate for other people's dignity

And promote equality

We will therefore have social justice
